The Northern Ireland Statistics and Research Agency

The Northern Ireland Statistics and Research Agency (NISRA) was established as an Executive Agency within the Northern Ireland Department of Finance and Personnel on 1 April 1996. NISRA is the principal source of official information of socio-economic conditions in Northern Ireland. The Agency provides statistics and social research services, undertakes the Northern Ireland census of population and administers the civil registration of births, deaths, marriages, civil partnerships and adoptions.

The overall corporate aims of NISRA are to:

- Provide a statistical and research service to support the decision making by Government in Northern Ireland and to inform the Assembly and the wider Community through the dissemination of reliable official statistics; and
- Administer the marriage laws and to provide a system for the civil registration of births, marriages, civil partnerships, adoptions and deaths in Northern Ireland.

NISRA can be found on the internet at www.nisra.gov.uk

The United Kingdom Statistics Authority has designated these statistics as National Statistics, in accordance with the Statistics and Registration Service Act 2007 and signifying compliance with the Code of Practice for Official Statistics.

Designation can be broadly interpreted to mean that the statistics:

- meet identified user needs;
- are well explained and readily accessible;
- are produced according to sound methods; and
- are managed impartially and objectively in the public interest.

Once statistics have been designated as National Statistics it is a statutory requirement that the Code of Practice shall continue to be observed.

Introduction

This publication is the third report from the 2011 Census of Population for Northern Ireland. It provides key statistics for the majority of Census questions and topics for Northern Ireland. They are mainly presented as percentages of population totals. The tables presented in this report are available electronically on the Northern Ireland Neighbourhood Information Service (NINIS) website at: www.nisra.gov.uk/ninis

Equivalent tables for Northern Ireland's Local Government Districts, Health and Social Care Trusts, Education and Library Boards and NUTS Level III areas may also be found on the NINIS website.

This report is produced in accordance with the provisions of the Census Act (Northern Ireland) 1969. As a statutory report it therefore relates only to the conduct of the Census in Northern Ireland. The Censuses in England and Wales and in Scotland are the responsibilities of the National Statistician and the Registrar General for Scotland, respectively.

This publication will be followed by the release of Key Statistics and Quick Statistics at all geographical levels including Electoral Ward and Small Areas. In turn, this will be followed by further reports (Local Characteristics tables, Detailed Characteristics tables and Detailed Theme tables) that will provide more detailed cross-tabular output. A timetable for the release of these results is included in the 2011 Census Output Prospectus, which can be obtained on request from Census Customer Services or from the NISRA website at: www.nisra.gov.uk.

As with all Census outputs, this report was made possible by the co-operation of members of the public in responding to the Census; the commitment of the Census Field Staff in delivering and collecting forms; and the assistance of many other people and organisations throughout all aspects of the Census. The Registrar General would like to thank all those who have contributed to this work.

Background to the 2011 Census

Legislation

The Census Act (Northern Ireland) 1969 allows for the carrying out of a Census no less than five years after the previous Census. However various other legislative requirements need to be fulfilled before a Census can be held. Following detailed consultation, development work and testing, the legislative process was initiated through the publication, in March 2010, of a proposals document, "The 2011 Census of Population in Northern Ireland". This informed the debate around the Census Order 2010, which was debated and approved by the Northern Ireland Assembly in June 2010. The Census Order determined the date of the Census, the people required to complete the form, those to be included on the form and the topics on which questions would be asked. The operational aspects of the Census also required legislative approval. This information was set out in the Census Regulations, which contained details of how the Census was to be conducted and included a copy of the Census form.

Fieldwork

The Census was designed to collect information on the resident population on Census Day - 27 March 2011. Ahead of this day there was a postal delivery of questionnaire packs to households and enumerator delivery to communal establishments. The single exception to this was households in rural Fermanagh, where addressing issues led NISRA to use enumerator delivery.

Residents were asked to complete the forms with their information, as correct on Census Day, and to return the completed forms by post or complete online. Where Census Office did not receive a form through the post or an online response, an enumerator visited the address in order to encourage the return of the completed Census form. Special arrangements were made to enumerate the Armed Forces and people sleeping rough.

Processing

Returned forms were fed through scanning machinery which captured all the ticked responses and stored written answers in digital form. The latter were coded into categories either by automatic systems which recognise terms given in response to questions, or by manual coding. These data then underwent an edit process to ensure that the data were consistent, and an imputation process to supply responses for questions which had not been completed on the original form.

Coverage of the population

The results in this report relate to the usually resident population of Northern Ireland on Census Day, 27 March 2011. Students are recorded at their term-time address. The Census placed a legal obligation on every household in which someone was usually resident on Census Day, and on every person who was a usual resident of a communal establishment, to complete a Census form. As no Census of Population succeeds in collecting information from every resident, a methodology was developed to adjust the results to take account of any undercount and thus provide an accurate estimate of the total population and its characteristics. The coverage methodology was developed with the assistance of academic experts and was subject to consultation and peer review. The work involved matching the results of the Census enumeration with those of an independent large scale Census Coverage Survey of approaching 15,000 households, conducted shortly after the Census. This enabled the number and characteristics of those not enumerated in the Census to be estimated and this information was used to produce Census results, that cover the complete population, making an adjustment for those who did not participate in the Census. Accordingly, the figures presented here, as with all reports on the 2011 Census, have been adjusted to take account of under-enumeration. Administrative registers and demographic estimates were used along with information from the 2001 Census to quality assure the final estimates. Further details on the methodology to adjust for under-enumeration can be found at: www.nisra.gov.uk

Comparability with 2001

The Census is designed to provide the most accurate possible picture of the population on the day the Census is taken. Further, both the 2001 and 2011 Censuses were adjusted for under enumeration and consequently both reflect the whole Northern Ireland population on Census Day 2001 and Census Day 2011, facilitating some comparisons between 2001 and 2011. However, such comparisons will be affected by differences, in particular, between the Census questionnaires in 2001 and 2011. Further detail on this can be found in the Comparability of the Census questionnaire in Northern Ireland between 2001 & 2011 document on the NISRA website at: www.nisra.gov.uk. It is recommended that changes over time in the number of the usual resident population are based on mid-year population estimates.

Information in this Report

As outlined earlier, this report provides Census results for Northern Ireland on Census Day, 27 March 2011. A full list of definitions and output classifications will be contained in the 2011 Census Definitions and Output Classifications report which will be published alongside this release and will be available on the NISRA website at: www.nisra.gov.uk

All questions included in the 2001 Census were included in the 2011 Census with the exception of questions relating to amenities, lowest floor level of accommodation, whether all rooms in a household were located on a single floor and number of employees at place of work. The answer categories in some questions, such as educational qualifications, were updated. Other questions on, for example, marital and same-sex civil partnership status and hours worked have been restructured. Further detail can be found in the Comparability of the Census questionnaire in Northern Ireland between 2001 & 2011 document on the NISRA website at: www.nisra.gov.uk. There were also new questions on household adaptations, last country lived in, date arrived in Northern Ireland, passports held, national identity, main language, use of English as a main language, ability in Ulster-Scots, adapted accommodation, nature of long-term conditions and voluntary work.

The Census questions asked of all people covered:

- relationship to others in the household;
- sex, age (date of birth) and marital and same-sex civil partnership status;
- whether schoolchild/full-time student;
- term-time address (where applicable);
- Irish language and Ulster-Scots language;
- main language;

- religion or religion brought up in;
- country of birth;
- ethnic group, national identity and passports held;
- general health, long-term health problem or disability and nature of long-term conditions;
- provision of unpaid care;
- intention to stay and whether lived outside Northern Ireland;
- usual address one year ago.

Further questions asked of those aged 16 and over covered:

- educational qualifications;
- economic activity and employment status;
- occupation and industry of employment;
- address of workplace or place of study;
- method of travel to work or place of study;
- voluntary work;
- hours worked.

In addition, the person filling in the form in each household was asked about:

- type of accommodation and whether it was self-contained;
- number of rooms;
- presence and type of central heating;
- availability of cars or vans;
- whether accommodation adapted;
- tenure;
- landlord.

Finding Information in this Report

This report contains 45 tables, covering the majority of topics contained in the Census. Within each table, results are presented for Northern Ireland. The actual counts underlying the percentages in this report are available on the Northern Ireland Neighbourhood Information Service (NINIS) website. Complementary statistics for Northern Ireland's Local Government Districts, Health and Social Care Trusts, Education and Library Boards, NUTS level III (European Union Nomenclature of Units for Territorial Statistics) areas are also available at: www.nisra.gov.uk/ninis.

Census Definitions

Key Census definitions on persons, households and communal establishments are given below.

Usual resident of the UK: A usual resident of the UK is anyone who, on Census Day 2011, was in the UK and had stayed or intended to stay in the UK for a period of 12 months or more, or had a permanent UK address and was outside the UK and intended to be outside the UK for less than 12 months.

Household: A household comprises one person living alone, or a group of people (not necessarily related) living at the same address who share cooking facilities and share a living room, sitting room or dining area.

Communal establishment: A communal establishment is an establishment providing managed residential accommodation. 'Managed' in this context means full-time or part-time supervision of the accommodation.

Household size: A household's size is the number of people resident in the household who are usual residents of the UK. People are included at their usual place of residence in the UK, so visitors staying at an address do not contribute to the household size.

Household space: A household space is the accommodation occupied by an individual household or, if unoccupied, available for an individual household.

Dwelling: A dwelling is a unit of accommodation in which all rooms - including the kitchen, bathroom and toilet - are behind a door that only that household can use.

A dwelling may comprise of one or more household spaces (the accommodation occupied, or available for occupation, by an individual household).

A dwelling may be classified as shared or unshared. A dwelling is shared if:

- the household spaces it contains have the accommodation type 'part of a converted or shared house';
- not all of the rooms (including kitchen, bathroom and toilet, if any) are behind a door that only that household can use, and
- there is at least one other such household space at the same address with which it can be combined to form the shared dwelling.

Dwellings that do not meet these conditions are unshared dwellings.

Fuller details of these terms and other Census definitions can be found on the NISRA website at: www.nisra.gov.uk

Quality of the results

The use of the Coverage Assessment and Adjustment methodology means that the results of the 2011 Census cover the entire population of Northern Ireland. The results are nonetheless subject to potential errors from a variety of sources including incorrect information provided on forms, sampling error relating to estimates derived through the adjustment process, and errors introduced during processing and imputation. Some elements of incorrect information have been corrected during an edit process and, following this, the results have undergone an extensive quality assurance process including checks against other sources.

Further information on accuracy, coverage and imputation rates is provided on the NISRA website in the 2011 Census Quality Assurance reports that have accompanied each of the releases to date.

Confidentiality

The Registrar General has taken steps to ensure that the confidentiality of respondents is fully protected. Accordingly all published results from the Census have been subject to statistical disclosure control processes.

Notes:

- The living arrangements variable is different to marital or same-sex civil partnership status. It combines information from both marital or same-sex civil partnership status and the relationship matrix. Therefore, for example, a person living as part of a 'cohabiting couple' could in fact be married (to someone else) but will not appear as married or separated in this classification.
- A person not living in a couple can be classified as married or in a same-sex civil partnership if they denote their marital or same-sex civil partnership status as married or in a same-sex civil partnership but have no spouse or partner resident in the household.
